British Military Service Bill Introduced in the Commons

BACHELORS AND WIDOWERS INCLUDED

Is Not Conscription, Says Premier Asquith of the Bill

London, Jan. 6.—Under the terms of the compulsory military service bill introduced in the House of Commons yesterday all males between the ages of 18 and 41, who are bachelors or widowers without children dependent on them, are liable for military service. Ireland is excluded from the terms of the measure. The largest assemblage of members since the war began faced the premier. Many members had obtained leave to return from the front so that they might be able to vote on the conscription bill. The Earl of Derby, who conducted the recruiting campaign, was in the peer's gallery.

Mr. Asquith said no case had been made out for general conscription, and that the bill he was introducing could be supported by those opposed to conscription.

RELIABLE REMEDY RESTORES KIDNEYS

For many years druggists have watched with much interest the remarkable record maintained by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is a physician's prescription. Swamp-Root is a strengthening medicine. Dr. Kilmer used it for years in his private practice. It helps the kidneys, liver and bladder to do the work nature intended they should do.

Swamp-Root has stood the test of years. It is sold by all druggists on its merit and it will help you. No other remedy can successfully take its place.

Be sure to get Swamp-Root and start treatment at once. However, if you wish first to test this great preparation, send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing, be sure and mention the Barre Daily Times.—Adv.

DO YOU SUFFER FROM BACKACHE?

When your kidneys are weak and torpid, they do not properly perform their functions; your back aches and you do not feel like doing much of anything. You are likely to be dependent and to borrow trouble, just as if you hadn't enough already. Don't be a victim any longer.

The old reliable medicine, Hood's Sarsaparilla, gives strength and tone to the kidneys and builds up the whole system. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a peculiar combination of roots, barks and herbs. No other medicine acts like it, because no other medicine has the same formula or ingredients. Accept no substitute, but insist on having Hood's, and get it today.—Adv.

tion. He opened his address with an analysis of the figures in the Derby report. He emphasized the fact that during the Derby campaign nearly 3,000,000 men had offered their services. Even deducting those rejected on the ground of physical disability, the total was still in excess of 2,500,000. "These are wonderful, encouraging figures," the premier continued. "They ought to convince both our allies and our enemies that the people of this country have their hearts in the war."

Mr. Asquith said he was totally unable, after making the largest possible hypothetical deduction to consider the number of unrecruited single men as anything but a substantial, and even considerable amount. He added that Sir John Simon, whose resignation as home secretary was announced Tuesday, thought the figures might be reduced to an inestimable quantity. If he had shared this view, Mr. Asquith said, the present contingency would not have arisen, but he could not think that. The primary obligation was to keep faith at all costs with the married men.

Mr. Asquith said exemptions from service could be claimed under the terms of the bill on the same grounds as in the case of men attested under the Derby plan. The grounds of exemption include conscientious objection to performing military service.

Other grounds for exemption from service, the premier said, included ill health, physical infirmity, the necessity to support dependent persons and the fact of being engaged on work of national importance.

The bill, Mr. Asquith continued, was limited specifically to redemption of the promise he had made publicly to married men. This pledge had been given at a time when overwhelming evidence had been submitted to him that married men who were willing and anxious to serve were being held back in large numbers. They needed to be reassured that, having regard for their circumstances and the business they were carrying on, they could count upon their term of service being postponed until the younger and single men had been called up. If assurance had not been given at that time the whole recruiting campaign would break down.

"Where, then, should we be now?" he asked.

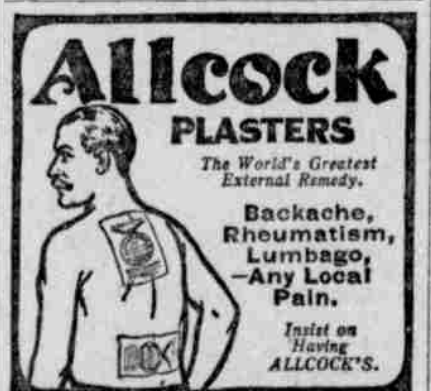

The premier added that if he were to be confronted with the same situation at the present time he would take precisely the same course. He said he had received no protest against his pledge.

Although he had been a strong supporter of the system of voluntary service, Mr. Asquith declared he was convinced of the necessity of the conscription bill, which he believed would meet with general approval when its provisions were understood.

NEW ENGLAND IS CUT OFF

Embargo Is Extended to All of the Railroads Therein

BOSTON & MAINE LATEST IN MOVEMENT

New Haven Was the First to Issue Stop Order

Boston, Jan. 6.—New England is now effectively cut off from the rest of the world by embargo orders. The three principal railroads struggled with the crushing flood of freight as long as they were able, hoping to keep their routes open and free, but as stagnation set in on the outside lines freight sought new outlets, congested the New York yards and then threatened to tie up the other entrances into New England.

Boston and Maine was the last of the three roads to yield and yesterday that company threw up its hands at the pile of freight headed its way. The Boston and Albany issued its embargo order Tuesday and the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad has had an embargo order in effect since Dec. 7, modified on Dec. 27. So far as they apply to classes of freight the embargo orders of the three roads are substantially the same. All of them allow the movement of coal, perishable goods, livestock and foodstuffs for human consumption. The latest order, that issued by the Boston and Maine yesterday, read as follows:

"On account of heavy movement of freight en route to New England, embargo is placed on all freight via junction points with the New York Central railroad, except livestock, perishable foodstuffs for human consumption, and coal. All freight billed prior to and including Jan. 6, 1912, will be accepted."

The Boston and Maine states in explaining that while thus far it has been able to take freight from the Delaware & Hudson at Mechanicsville, and from the New York Central at Rotterdam Junction, without serious delay, yet those connections advise that by reason of the New Haven railroad embargo of Dec. 7, diverted freight is being offered in such large volume that an embargo is necessary if congestion is to be avoided. The Delaware & Hudson placed such an embargo last week. By reason of the Boston & Albany embargo placed Tuesday the demands on the Boston and Maine will increase to such an extent that no alternative is left but to place a similar embargo until the accumulation now on hand on its connections is reduced.

HASNT GIVEN UP BASEBALL FOR FARMING YET

But Ray Collins, the Big Vermont Twirler, Has Not Signed Contract to Pitch with Red Sox Next Season.

Burlington, Jan. 6.—Ray Collins may not pitch for the Boston Red Sox next season. Mr. Collins was asked today if he had given up baseball for farming, a statement to that effect having been published in a New York paper. "I haven't decided what I will do," said Mr. Collins. "I haven't signed up for next year, and may not do so, but there is nothing sure about it."

"Does the question of a possible cut in salary have anything to do with your course in the matter?" was asked. "Not the slightest," was the reply. Further than that Mr. Collins had nothing to say. He enjoys farming and was interviewed over the long distance "phone at his farm house in Colchester."

He had an off season last year, in baseball, but the manager has asked him to come back. He hasn't left the game yet, however.

ONE GOOD NAVY YARD

The Puget Sound Station Is Thoroughly Dependable

SO SAYS STANFORD TO NAVAL COMMITTEE

New York Situation Rather Serious—Difficulties in Entering

Washington, Jan. 6.—There is only one thoroughly deep water naval station in the United States, according to Rear Admiral Stanford, head of the bureau of yards and docks, who testified yesterday before the House naval committee, and that station is the Puget Sound navy yard. The situation at the New York navy yard is "rather serious," Admiral Stanford testified. At Norfolk, while annual dredgings are not needed, the river and channel in front of the yard should be widened.

The biggest battleships, Admiral Stanford said, found no difficulty in entering the Puget Sound yard. Difficulties were encountered at times in entering the Philadelphia and Charleston yards, he said. He promised to give more details at today's hearing.

CONGRESS ALL SUMMER.

Republican House Member Can See No Other Explanation of Delay.

Washington, Jan. 6.—That the administration is expecting to hold Congress in Washington all summer was the statement of a prominent Republican member of the House appropriations committee yesterday. "In no other way," he stated, "can I account for the inexcusable and unprecedented delay in framing the big appropriations bills. Evidently the leaders think that there is plenty of time, and they are taking it easy."

Up to date the appropriations committee has not held a single meeting and no meeting is scheduled for the near future. This committee has the task of framing the sundry civil bill, the legislative, executive and judicial bill, the District of Columbia bill, the fortifications bill, the pension bill and the deficiency bills. Work on none of these has yet begun, and every attempt to learn a reason for the delay meets with evasive answers. "There is no reason for delaying unless the Democrats plan to sit here all summer," said the member just referred to. "While it is true that important questions of policy are to be settled in these measures, yet they are not so controversial as the revenue bill. The minority would be glad to go ahead and get the business done, but the powers that be are putting on the brakes."

SPEED OF PROJECTILES.

How the Velocity of Cannon Balls and Bullets is Measured.

How fast does a bullet travel? The highest velocity ever given to a cannon ball is 1,626 feet per second. This is equal to a mile in little more than three seconds, or nearly twenty miles a minute.

A rifle bullet does not travel so fast as a cannon ball, the average rate being 1,275 feet per second. This matter of speed is tested in a very interesting way.

A long wooden shed is used, in which a distance of exactly 100 feet has been carefully marked off. At each end of this space is a stand something like a target with a large circular opening where the bullet should be. Across each opening is stretched a small electric wire, connected with a delicate instrument in another room.

The rifle from which the firing is done is so aimed that the bullet which flies from it cuts both wires. Obviously the difference in time between the cutting of the two wires marks the speed of the bullet through that 100 feet.

When the first wire is cut an electric current is broken and a rod falls, moving a pointer on a slide in its descent. The breaking of the second wire acts in the same manner on another set of rods, slides and pointers.

The difference in the marks made by the pointers on the slides makes it possible to estimate the difference in their time of falling, and from these calculations accurate figures as to speed are obtained.—London Answers.

He Saved the Patent Office. When in the war of 1812 the British, who had taken Washington, trained their guns upon the patent office Dr. Thornton, throwing himself directly before the guns, cried:

"Are you Englishmen or Goths and Vandals? This is the patent office—a depository of the ingenuity and inventions of the American nation in which the whole civilized world is interested. Would you destroy it? Then let the charge pass through my body."

And the building was spared. Twenty-four years afterward, however, it was destroyed by fire, together with everything in it.

Couldn't Forget It. "Saturday night some miscreant lugged off a whole cord of my wood, and somehow I can't forget about it," declared Silas.

"Have you tried to forget it?" inquired his friend.

"Yes. Sunday morning I went to church, hoping I could get it off my mind, and before I had been there five minutes the choir started in singing 'The Lost Chord,' so I got out."—Judge.

NORWICH UNIVERSITY

New Indoor Rifle Range to Be Constructed in Jackman Hall.

The president of Norwich university has secured the sum of $350 with which to construct a new indoor rifle range. This is now under course of construction in the basement of Jackman hall. This range is to take the place of the range which has been in the basement of the alumni hall and was at best but a poor one and not up to the needs of the university. The new one will consist of four individual booths, separated from each other. Each booth will contain at the firing end a heavy prone table. At the other end will be a box of target in which the target will be placed. The target will run on a trolley carrier, reaching from the firing point to the target. When in place the target will be illuminated from all sides by electric lights. This range will be the best equipped, most modern and up-to-date range in the state. The university has purchased six new Stevens indoor target rifles, and now can claim the best shooting equipment in the state.

The military department has secured several new articles of equipment, which have been placed in the military reception room. Among others are two new terrain tables, roller maps and a series of desks. The terrain tables are of massive mission construction, of hard wood, oiled and waxed to be water tight. In these will be worked during the winter problems in trenching and earth fort construction, bridges, and such other military problems as will be met with in modern warfare. These having been learned by miniature construction can be duplicated with great accuracy on a larger scale in the open at a later date. The roller wall maps are for the solution of theoretical military field problems. The desk equipment will consist of over twenty desks for regular military classroom work. With these acquisitions this room becomes a thoroughly up-to-date military classroom.

The chemistry laboratories are being given an overhauling, and all the sink drains are being reinstalled, in a better manner, and in the junior and senior laboratories several new ones are being placed. This will give sink room of not more than two men to a sink, thus lessening the waiting and confusion sometimes caused heretofore in class room work. Running water is also being placed in the hood as a further convenience. Each student will now have sink room, gas, suction for filtering, where in the past this has not been the case. Other improvements are being planned in an effort to better the course and enable the students to derive a greater benefit from their course.

BARRE OPERA HOUSE.

Madame Wanda Electrifies a Large Audience.

Last night before a crowded house Madame Wanda demonstrated to a bewildered audience her great ability as a mentalist of wonderful power. Scores of Barre's citizens asked questions of Wanda and received replies in a sincere and straightforward manner which made everyone believe that the madame can pierce the innermost recesses of life. This superior demonstration is one of the biggest drawing cards of vaudeville theatres ever shown, and Madame Wanda's appearance in a theatre is one of crowded houses. The management of the opera house has gone to an enormous expense to secure this stellar attraction for this week, and from all sides come expressions of appreciation of the excellent enterprise shown. In connection with Wanda, the usual excellent program of pictures will be shown. Do not miss the big feature to-night.—adv.
